

Supercharge Your Google Cloud Tools with RingCentral's Seamless Integrations

On average, employees switch between apps more than 1,100 times a day, losing precious hours to repetitive, manual tasks. That's time better spent closing deals, solving problems, or delighting customers.

If you live in tools like Google Workspace and Google Chrome, you know how these apps keep your work running. But keeping up with communication—emails here, chats there, calls in another app—can feel like juggling while sprinting. What if you had a way to connect everything, streamline tasks, and get it all done faster? That's where RingCentral comes in.

RingCentral Meets Google for Instant Communication with Ease

RingCentral's integration with Google Workspace and Google Chrome eliminates the constant back-and-forth between apps, allowing you to focus on getting more done, faster. Imagine answering emails in Gmail while seamlessly messaging your contacts or making a call—without ever leaving your inbox.

Need to hop on a video call? Schedule or join a meeting directly from Google Calendar with effortless ease. And with the Google Chrome extension, you can highlight any phone number on a webpage and dial it instantly, saving time and reducing frustration. This seamless workflow keeps everything connected, intuitive, and built to help your team stay productive.

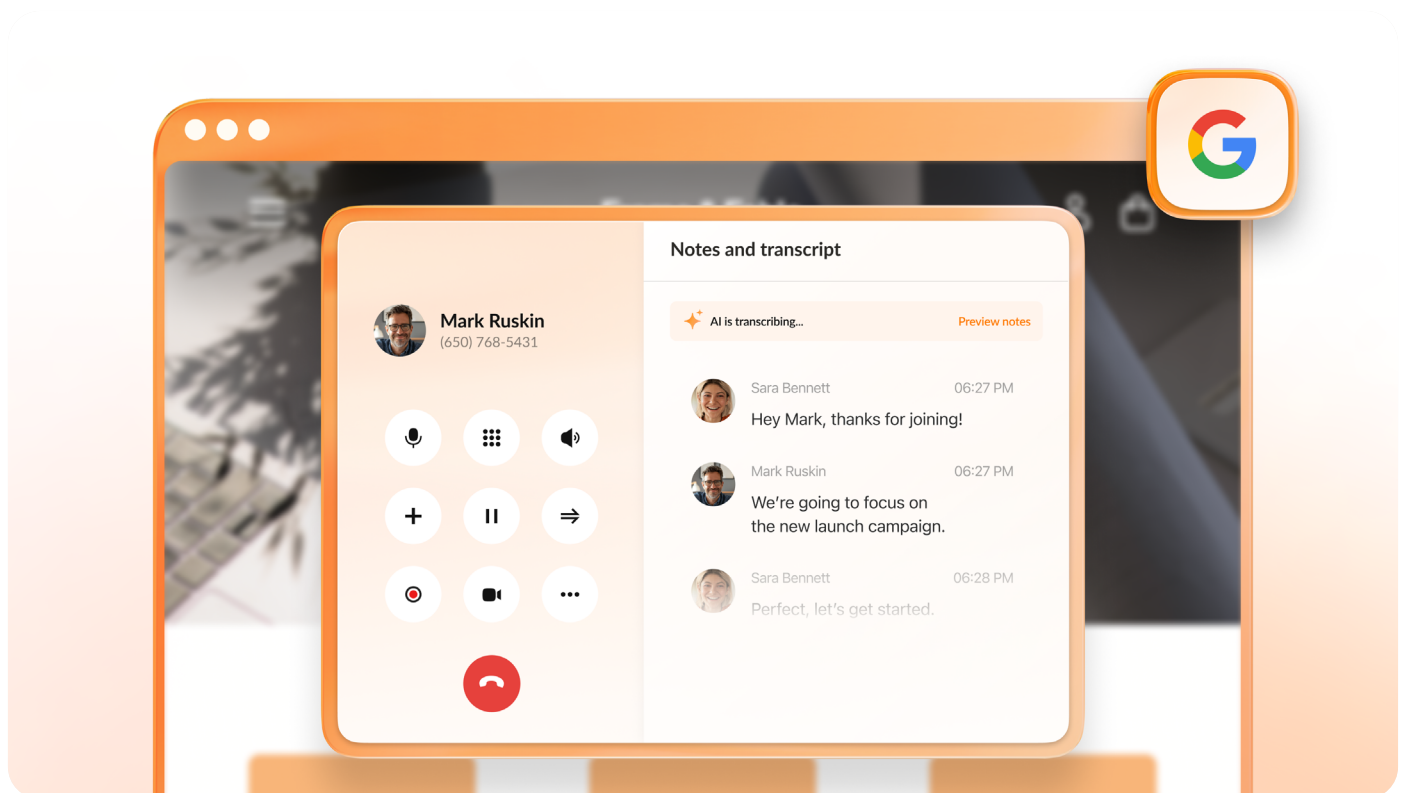

Essential Features for Smarter Communication

RingCentral for Google Workspace

- Gmail Integration: Message, call, view contact presence, access history, and surface contextual info—all within email threads.
- Calendar Integration: Add RingCentral meetings to your Google Calendar events with a single click. Joining or scheduling meetings has never been easier.
- Drive Integration: Share files stored in Google Drive directly through RingCentral chat.

RingCentral for Google Chrome

- Click-to-Call: Highlight any phone number in your browser and call it instantly via the Chrome extension. No copy-pasting or extra steps.
- Stay in Your Browser: Access your RingCentral communication tools—like messaging or call transcriptions—without switching tabs.
- Complete communications history: View your calls, texts, and voicemails without leaving your browser.

Real Benefits Your Team Will Notice Immediately

- Cut Down on App Switching: By combining communication and Google tools, employees save time and eliminate unnecessary steps.
- Boost Productivity: Direct access to calls, messages, and meetings keeps your focus on completing tasks, not managing tools.
- Increase Revenue Potential: With faster calls and more efficient workflows, sales teams can spend less time dialing and more time closing.
- Seamless Set-Up: It's quick to install, easy to use, and designed to work for teams of any size.

AUTOPAY: Chrome Extension Saves 10% of Every Agent's Time

"Our loan specialists collectively make thousands of calls a day to customers, so these employees spend most of the day in their CRM. "Because we use the RingCentral integration with Google Chrome, our specialists can dial a customer's number right from the Chrome extension, without ever opening RingEX. That convenience alone probably saves every agent at least 10% of their time, every day."

Bill Heep
Director of Communications and Systems

" One of the biggest benefits the team has discovered since rolling out RingCentral Contact Center has been its ability to integrate with Google Chrome. Our sales and fan experience teams use the Google Chrome extension for Contact Center, and it's saving them an average of one to two hours per agent per day. With roughly 40 active agents, that means our call center teams are saving between 40 and 80 hours every day."

Michael Brown,
IT Enterprise Operations Manager at PDS
